“ Elbert was one of my 1st. employees when I moved to Maryland. He and I laughed so hard when we would unload truck. He was always a hard worker and didn't question any guidance given. His daughter was the joy of his life. He always talked about her. Rest Peacefully, Sir! You will be greatly missed.

“ *Elbert, my Dusty Old Pal.
You truly saw something in me and took me in under your wing over a decade ago to show me the ropes. You wound up being the closest friend I have EVER made in a professional setting. So much so you broke bread at holiday meals and called me a brother.*

The times spent cutting up, fooling around, and sharing in one another’s company is fondly looked back on, I will miss doing buddy costumes for Halloween, Men in Black style. Old recruit with a new rookie. I’ll miss you in that Santa hat all day every day. You telling I’m cool for going the extra mile and creating the “festi-vest” as you dubbed it.

I’ll miss you, old friend.

“ The impact Mr. Hicks had on me, from a professional as well as a personal level, was profound. You don't meet too many people like him in this world. Never once did I hear him complain about anything, even when he wasn't feeling his best. He had a calming influence on everyone and I will cherish the many conversations we had and the time we spent together.
