

Harold J. Gibson

November 15, 1941 - September 10, 2015

Harold Jerome Gibson was born on November 15, 1941. He was affectionately known as “Roni” or “Patt” which was short for Patton, a name passed down to him from his father’s last name.

Harold was considered a ladies' man, a free spirit. He cared about living life to the fullest; women and cars. He loved his cars equally as much as he loved life. If someone said he couldn't do something, he'd go else where and make it happen. If a friend or family member upset him, he'd cut them off sometimes for a period of six months to two years because Harold was a very strong minded individual and truthfully, he did not want anyone to feel that he needed them to live nor did he want to feel that he owed anyone anything. His focus was amazing. He did everything he set out to do.

He leaves to cherish his memory three children: Theresa Bumbrey (William), Heather Grace and Deron Harris; one nephew, Jimmy Patton; grandson, Samuel Ingram; granddaughter, Letasha Ingram and seven grandkids.
