“ Please accept my deepest sympathy. "Our days ebb away...; And our years come to an end like a whisper. The span of our life is 70 years, Or 80 if one is especially strong... They quickly pass by, and away we fly." (Psalms 90:9,10) This reminds us of the sad fact that no matter how long one might live, it is not long enough. Promises made by God assures us he is aware of the pain felt when death snatches a love one away. God promises: "He will swallow up death forever, And the sovereign Lord will wipe away the tears from all faces." (Isaiah 25:8) This gives us hope of being reunited with our dear loved ones who are sleeping in death. (Daniel 12:2) May pondering over this future blessing bring you a large measure of comfort.
