“ My deepest condolences for the loss of your dear loved one. While nothing will completely take away your grief, by meditating on Gods promises found in the Bible, you can find real hope and the strength to keep going. My family and I have found the scripture at Isaiah 25:8 to be especially comforting. Here it promises that God "will swallow up death forever and the Sovereign Lord Jehovah will wipe away the tears from all faces.

“ My dear wife and I would like to extend our condolences for the loss of your loved one. All of us need comfort and hope to deal with such difficult times like this. The Bible is certainly one source that can provide us with just what we need (Hebrews 4:12). Almighty God who inspired the words of the Bible to be written gives humankind a promise that one day all those who have died will come back to life (John 5:28, 29; Acts 24:15). In that promise He also helps us to see that life will certainly be worth living, because all the things that make life challenging right now will be gone! He promises to remove forever all sickness, injustice of every kind, and even death (Revelation 21:3, 4; Psalm 37:9-11; Isaiah 33:24). What a glorious and miraculous day that will surely be! We can be sure that this hope is a reality, because it is impossible for God to lie (Hebrews 6:18). Just as that hope strengthened Jesus on the day he was put to death, so this hope can strengthen us as well (Hebrews 12:2). Our thoughts and prayers are with all of you.
